

HOSPITALITY NEWS»

San Antonio Resort Announces Glamping Option for Events

Located in Texas Hill Country, just 20 minutes from downtown San Antonio, the Hyatt Regency Hill Country Resort and Spa recently announced a glamping option for event planners. The meeting and event set-up is perfect enjoying the Texas outdoors in luxury. The program features dining tables, lounges, sofas and other comfortable seating.

“The glamping setup brings all of the comforts and luxuries of our resort to the outdoors and is perfect for a relaxed cocktail reception or an elegant dinner for meeting attendees,” says John Hernstat, director of sales and marketing at Hyatt Regency Hill Country Resort and Spa. “With our ideal location in San Antonio’s beautiful, rolling Hill Country region, we wanted to provide a unique event experience that showcases our setting.”

Valencia Group Opens Texican Court Hotel in Irving

Texican Court, a retro-inspired motor court concept hotel, recently opened in Irving. The 152 guest-room property is Valencia Group’s third court concept boutique hotel and is located directly across from the Irving Convention Center. The design of the hotel features Spanish mission-style architecture with a subtle hint of Texas. Texican Court offers three distinct courtyards, a circular swimming pool, fire pits, the Two Mules Cantina and 3,500 square feet of indoor event space. “We wanted to bring the theme song from the Spaghetti Western film, “The Good, The Bad and The Ugly,” to life through the design of this hotel,” says Valencia Group President Doyle A. Graham, Jr. “When you listen to the song, you can envision the larger-than-life vistas filled with dramatic backdrops and excitement.

Glamping in pure luxury is now an option at the Hyatt Regency Hill Country Resort and Spa, and planners are making it part of their events.

A guest room at Texican Court in Irving. The retro-inspired motor court features Spanish mission-style architecture with a Texas twist.